MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Boozhoo, Class of 2026,

Today is a day filled with pride, reflection, and celebration. On behalf of the entire Bay Mills Community College family and the Bay Mills Indian Community, congratulations on this incredible milestone. You have reached the end of one journey and the beginning of another, and we are so proud of each and every one of you.

As you walk across that stage, you become part of something greater. You join a proud community of BMCC alumni who lead, who serve, who give back, and who carry the spirit of this place with them wherever they go. Every late night, every challenge, and every moment of perseverance brought you here. This is your moment. You have earned it.

At BMCC, we are more than a college. We are a community grounded in Anishinaabe values, where respect, compassion, strength, and knowledge guide us. Those teachings now go with you. Whether you continue your education, begin your career, or return home to serve your community, remember who you are and who walked alongside you on this journey.

It is especially meaningful to celebrate members of our own campus team who are graduating today. You represent what it means to believe in lifelong learning and to lead by example.

As you step into this next chapter, know that you will always have a home here. The BMCC family will continue to stand with you, support you, and welcome you back. We are excited to see where your path leads and the impact you will make along the way.

Gichi-apiitendaa gwad (Congratulations!)

Minawaa giga-waabamin (I'll see you again)

With immense pride,

Dr. Duane A. Bedell

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER - CORDERO HOLMES

Cordero Holmes is a Phoenix native, a proud member of the Tohono O’odham Nation, and a nationally recognized community leader, scholar, and advocate whose work sits at the intersection of just reform, education equity, and youth development. A formerly incarcerated individual, Cordero has transformed his lived experience into a powerful platform of system change, dedicating his life to uplifting justice-impacted communities and advancing pathways to opportunity.

After serving more than a decade in prison, including time in solitary confinement, Cordero discovered education as a catalyst for transformation. While incarcerated, he enrolled at Rio Salado College, where he earned multiple degrees and certifications, including in Addiction and Substance Use Disorders, an Associate in Applied Science, and an Associate in the Arts with an emphasis in Psychology. His academic excellence earned him national recognition, including the prestigious Jack Kent Cooke Undergraduate Transfer Scholarship, the Coco-Cola Academic Team Scholarship, and the Phi Theta Kappa Hites Transfer Scholarship.

Cordero went on to graduate with honors from Arizona State University, earning a Bachelor of Science in Public Service and Public Policy from Watts College of Public Service and Community Solutions. He is currently pursuing dual master’s degrees in Criminology and Criminal Justice and Public Administration, continuing his commitment to shaping equitable systems through policy and practice.

Professionally, Cordero serves as the Director of Operations for Progress Pushers Arizona, a nonprofit organization dedicated to empowering youth impacted by the justice system. In this role, he mentors and trains young people ages 12-24, helping them build life skills, access resources, and reimagining their futures. His work extends into juvenile justice spaces, including mentorship at the Durango Juvenile Detention Center, as well as direct service with unhoused populations across the Phoenix area.

A respected voice on education and justice reform, Cordero has contributed to policy and advocacy efforts at both the state and national levels. He has served on the Arizona Department of Education’s Indian Education Advisory Council, advising on policies impacting Indigenous students, and has collaborated with organizations such as the Computing Alliance for Hispanic-Serving Institutions and the Maricopa Council of Black American Affairs. As a STAR Fellow with the Urban Institute, he has traveled to tribal nations across the country, facilitating caregiver groups and sharing his experience navigating higher education as a justice-impacted parent.

In addition to his professional and policy work, Cordero is a nationally sought-after speaker who uses storytelling to challenge narratives around incarceration, equity, and opportunity. His journey has been featured in the PBS documentary Being Free, where he shared his reentry experience alongside other formerly incarcerated individuals.

Cordero’s leadership and impact has earned him numerous honors, including the 2025 Arizona State University Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Servant-Leadership Award, the 2023 City of Phoenix MLK Living the Dream Award, and the 2025 American Association of Community Colleges Outstanding Alumni Award. He also serves as Mr. Indigenous at ASU 1st Attendant (2024-2025), acting as a cultural ambassador across campus and in tribal communities.

Above all, Cordero’s work is grounded in deep belief that people are more than their past and that systems can, and must, be transformed to reflect that truth. Whether mentoring youth, shaping policy, or building community partnerships, he remains committed to creating second chances, expanding access to education, and ensuring that those most impacted by injustice are centered in the solutions.

2026 STUDENTS OF THE YEAR - NICOLE MALEPORT & VICTOR CHUGUNOV

Nicole Maleport is from the Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan area. She is pursuing an associate degree in Native Studies and Anishinaabe Language Instructor at Bay Mills Community College (BMCC). She has a passion for learning. While living away from home, she developed an interest in holistic teachings. Gardening, Thai massage, yoga, arts, and traditional lifeways enrich her. In the fall of 2021, Nicole began taking classes at BMCC while still living away. Over time, it became clear that home was calling her back. There was no better way to pursue the Anishinaabe language and deepen her understanding of her Ojibwe culture than to return to her home area, where she is actively involved in learning the Ojibwe language and participating in cultural events. These experiences teach about our interconnectedness and ways to carry bimadaaziwin for future generations. When she's not busy with schoolwork or at work, she enjoys being outside, exploring nature, watching the shorelines, and being creative and crafty in a myriad of media, especially sewing.

Victor Chugunov was born in 2006 in LaGrange, Indiana. His parents and older sister immigrated from Russia in 1998 and have lived in the United States since. Victor lived in Indiana for the first several years of his life before his family moved to the small town of Constantine, Michigan, where he attended first through sixth grades. In fourth grade, he became interested in playing music and joined the school band, playing the baritone all the way through his high school graduation. After finishing sixth grade, his family moved again to Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan, where he still resides. He attended seventh and eighth grade and all of high school in the Sault, graduating from Sault Area High School in 2024. Victor began attending Bay Mills Community College that same year and is on track to graduate in May 2026. Victor stated, "I am beyond honored to be selected as the non-Native student of the year at BMCC."

Both Nicole and Victor embody the strength and aspirations of our ancestors and the hopes of the next seven generations. As you continue your journey, we encourage you to maintain the same passion, determination, and unwavering spirit of excellence that have brought you to this moment. BMCC stands proudly behind you, supporting you every step of the way.

We extend our heartfelt congratulations to both of you for your hard work, leadership, and unwavering commitment. Your stories have the power to uplift our entire community, and we are truly grateful for your contributions.

Miigwech for your dedication, leadership, and unwavering spirit—your achievements inspire us all!
